OBJECTIVES

Our goal is to equip educators in ORR shelters with the tools to serve unaccompanied children (UC's) effectively. We go above and beyond ORR expectations to provide education that is relevant and empowering to each student. Our 10 week curriculum is trauma-informed, culturally-sensitive, and built around a highly engaging project-based learning format. We also provide flexible training for educators and administrators, grounded in the social emotional learning competencies that are the foundation of all of our work. Finally, we provide both student assessment and educational program evaluation, with recommendations based on your unique setting.

SERVICES OFFERED

1. 10 week curriculum

We license a 10-week, bilingual (English/Spanish) curriculum via a Learning Management System that includes lesson plans in math, science, social studies, and language, along with student and teacher handouts, all aligned with Common Core Standards and adaptable to specific needs upon request.

2. In-person or Virtual Training

We offer in-person or virtual training on our curriculum and trauma-informed classroom practices, and consult on working with UC's or immigrant youth, trauma-informed education, social-emotional learning, and project-based learning design.

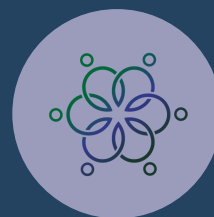

3. Evaluation of Educational Programs

Our evaluation of educational programs for UC's includes curriculum, classroom delivery, teacher training, and student assessment, achieved through classroom observations, material reviews, interviews, and data collection on experiences and outcomes.

CORE CAPABILITIES

Our culturally responsive educational consulting work rests on our expertise in curriculum development, teacher training, and educational program evaluation. We are familiar with the Continuum of Care settings and mental health needs of UC's and will tailor our services to fit your needs.
